LOS ANGELES, CA, US, July 24, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Blythe Baines just released her new single "White Rabbit" feat. Snoop Dogg through SM1 Music Group/ Sony Music. The song features Blythe's trademark smooth and sensual voice, contrasted by Snoop Dogg's classic flow in the verses. Blythe is a Los Angeles based Pop/RnB artist that combines elements of spirituality as well as the everyday human experience into her music to create an eclectic and hip-hop influenced musical blend. Elements of her work have been compared to acts such as Lana Del Rey, Marina and the Diamonds, and Lorde.

Born in San Francisco to an Indian father and a mother from the Southern United States, Blythe spent the early years of her life performing in the San Francisco Girls Chorus and skating on the San Francisco synchronized ice skating team. In 2007, she started independent study and left the country to live in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Upon return to the U.S., Blythe moved to Los Angeles and began singing hooks on songs that her rapper friends would make, before ultimately deciding to pursue music. In the later half of 2017, Blythe got her first single "Stars" played on multiple radio stations and then began work on her EP with producer Carter Soso.
