LONDON, GREATER LONDON, UK, August 1, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The forestry and logging market is expected to reach a value of nearly $998.47 billion by 2022, significantly growing at a CAGR of 4.1% during the forecast period. The growth in the forestry and logging market is due to rise in disposable income, increased demand for agriculture and animal produce, driving demand for agriculture support activities, and fishing, hunting activities. However, the market for forestry and logging is expected to face certain restraints from several factors such as harsh climate and unfavorable terrain.

The forestry market consists of sales of forestry products by entities (organizations, sole traders and partnerships) that produce forestry products by the growing, cutting and transporting of timber, operations of the timber tract, growing trees for reforestation and collecting forest products such as gums, barks and fibres.
