

Inland Training Launches Completely Redesigned InlandArms.com

Modern, updated website design provides enhanced usability for firearms enthusiasts in search of quality safety training and instruction.

RIVERSIDE, CA, UNITED STATES, August 1, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Inland Training is pleased to announce that it has launched a completely redesigned website at InlandArms.com. Whether searching for quality firearms instruction, safety information, shooting tips or firearms-related news, the new platform provides the visitor with enhanced usability to more easily find the information they need.

Built on a modern, secure foundation, the new InlandArms.com not only provides users the ability to research and register for Inland Training's award-winning firearms training classes but also offers valuable educational content for the visitor in search of firearms-related news and information.

"We felt that it was time to update the website with a newer, more modern format," says Inland Training Owner and Chief Instructor Ken McGreevy. "We believe that Inland Training provides some of the best quality firearms instruction available. We need to make sure that we reach everyone that is interested in increasing their knowledge and skill level by providing them with useful, informative content. This new website gives us the ability to do just that."

In addition to the website update, Inland Training is expanding its social media presence. With an updated Facebook page and future content that is currently under production, significant efforts are being made to reach a broader audience. Communication being paramount, Inland Training is also utilizing CRM software to improve the flow of information with both its students and non-student firearms enthusiasts.

"The best information in the world is useless if we can't get it to the people that need it," says Inland Training Firearms Instructor Kevin A. Nye. "Educating people is what Inland Training does. When you look at the world through that lens, it becomes very clear that making the investment and leveraging technology to touch more people is the right thing to do.”
