The financial services industry is aligned with a background of sharp risk, market and regulatory pressures due to which entities in the financial service sector strive to grow and enhance their shareholder values. Moreover, intensifying competition has resulted in diminishing market margins which has forced companies in the financial services sector to cut cost while providing quality customer service. At the same time, tightening regulations are also presenting an array of challenges for the industry. To keep pace with the evolving challenges, the financial services companies are embracing new technologies. Technology incorporation within financial services has helped organizations develop a sound networking strategy for establishing strong connection with participants across the value chain.
