

How to Land Investors and Ultra High Net-Worth individuals

Bervann Capital Gala 2019 - Monday August 19th - Metropolitan Club New York, 6pm - 10pm

NEW YORK , NEW YORK , UNITED STATES , August 12, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The mindset is not to sell, but to make new friends. Go after the people, not their purse.

We often see companies and fund managers with attractive offerings, attending investors' gatherings, yet struggling to close deals, even in some well attended and curated platforms.

One of the stunning observations is: the process and tactics applied are usually a turn-off for UHNWI and active investors.

Registering to attend an event is a bold step, but executing an efficient participation is a more important one. A few tips, as you prepare to attend The "Bervann Capital Gala 2019" in New York, next Monday August 19, at the Metropolitan Club:

Bervann Capital Gala 2019

- Do not sell or promote your offering, rather introduce yourself, share your story and background, mark your counterparts with what makes you unique or different from your peers (what is the one thing that will make them remember you);

Raising capital from investors with whom you have no built-in relationship is a process (there is no such thing as the deal is urgent or will close fast). Efficient investment decisions take time.”

Tariq Hussain, CEO of Bervann Capital

- Ask questions, show interest in who they are and what they stand for on a personal note, find out what they do and what they are looking for, get to the bottom of what their core interests are, listen more and talk less, learn vs lecture;

- Entice them, so they may ask to know more about your activities, for your contact information, for your materials to be emailed to them, or for a follow-up call/coffee/meeting with you;

- Be ready to pitch, and do it, ONLY if they open that door.

"Raising capital from an investor with whom you have no built-in relationship is a process (there is no such thing as the deal is urgent, we need to close fast). Serious Investors bet on people first, then invest in products. It takes time to get to know and like you, then understand your operations and make proper investment decisions", said Tariq Hussain - CEO of Bervann Capital.
