

Rep. Kendra Horn Votes to Protect Iconic American Horses, Hern, Mullin, Lucas, and Cole Side with Abusers

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLAHOMA, US, August 13, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The U.S. House of Representatives recently passed the Prevent All Soring Tactics (PAST) Act, H.R. 693, by a vote of 333 to 96. U.S. Rep. Kendra Horn, a Democrat freshman in Congress, voted in support of the measure, while the rest of the delegation, Reps. Kevin Hern, Markwayne Mullin, Frank Lucas, and Tom Cole, split from the majority of Republicans in the U.S. House, voting against the measure in the anti-animal protection vote. Horn was a cosponsor of the legislation in 2019, and Cole was a cosponsor in 2017, but apparently changed his position on the issue.

The PAST Act seeks to strengthen the Horse Protection Act and end the torturous, painful practice of soring Tennessee Walking, Racking, and Spotted Saddle Horses. Soring, the intentional infliction of pain to horses' front limbs by applying caustic chemicals such as mustard oil or kerosene or inserting sharp objects into the horses' hooves to create an exaggerated gait known as the "Big Lick," has plagued the equine world for six decades.

U.S. Senators Jim Inhofe and James Lankford have yet to take a position on the Senate companion bill, S. 1007, led by the senior U.S. Senator from Idaho, Republican Mike Crapo, that mirrors the House passed legislation.

“This was not a partisan issue - over half of the House Republicans voted to end the torture of horses,” said Drew Edmondson, former Oklahoma Attorney General and co-chair of the Animal Wellness National Law Enforcement Council. “We commend the members of both parties who voted ‘aye’ and are hoping for a similar result in the Senate. It is the right thing to do, regardless of party.”

“We applaud Rep. Kendra Horn for her support and key role in overwhelmingly passing the PAST Act to end this barbaric and indefensible practice that has marred the horse show world for decades,” said Marty Irby, executive director at Animal Wellness Action and past president of the Tennessee Walking Horse Breeders’ & Exhibitors’ Association. “Mullin, Lucas, Hern and Cole sure know how to pick the wrong horse by voting against the PAST Act, but the landslide support for the bill is a powerful signal to the U.S. Senate that it should pony up and end this cruelty to horses once and for all.”

“The bottom line is you are either for animal cruelty, or you are against it,” said Rep. Ted Yoho (R-FL), lead Republican sponsor of the PAST Act, and cochair of the Congressional Veterinary Medicine Caucus.

The PAST Act would ban the use of painful large stacked shoes and ankle chains and would also eliminate the existing system of self-regulation by the industry and toughen penalties for violators of the Horse Protection Act. It’s supported by the American Quarter Horse Association, Animal Wellness Action, the American Horse Council, American Veterinary Medical Association, American Association of Equine Practitioners, United States Equestrian Federation, National Sheriff’s Association, and Oklahoma Veterinary Medical Association.

The PAST Act has been blocked for years by a handful of well-placed lawmakers, but a new House rule triggering consideration of any measure that attracts 290 or more cosponsors brought the issue to the floor. PAST attracted 308 cosponsors, and was led by U.S. Reps. Kurt Schrader (D-OR) and Ted Yoho (R-FL), cochairs of the Congressional Veterinary Medicine Caucus, along with Reps. Steve Cohen (D-TN), Ron Estes (R-KS), Jan Schakowsky (D-IL), and Chris Collins (R-NY). The Senate companion has garnered 43 cosponsors.
