ATLANTA, GEORGIA, UNITED STATES, August 15, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- An all minority female panel of experts in the cannabis industry this month will discuss cannabis investment opportunities in Georgia, educating those curious about the medical cannabis industry.

Panelists will educate the public about investment opportunities in the cannabis industry. - Keiko Beatie, CEO of Green Wave Relations;
- Tanganyika "Tangy" Daniel, CEO of Jayn Green;
- Antuanette Gomez, CEO of Pleasure Peaks; and
- Shanita Penny, CEO of Budding Solutions

Khadijah Adams, Vice President & COO of C E Hutton, LLC will serve as the keynote speaker.

"Disadvantages exist for minorities trying to realize their dreams and business goals in the cannabis and hemp industries. Existing stigma and challenges to realize them can appear to be without end," Adams said. "The best way to attack these challenges is to re-educate our communities and build allies in the industry who provides support, access and insight."

A coalition of Georgia cannabis reform organizations dedicated to legalizing cannabis, the Georgia Cannabis Coalition seeks to help bridge the gap between the southern and global cannabis markets. The coalition also seeks to be a resource for those seeking medical, physical or financial advice about the legal cannabis plant.

"This event is the first of its kind with all minority women speaking about the strategic moves you can make to really get the return on investment any investor is looking for in the cannabis industry," Georgia Cannabis Coalition board chair Tanganyika "Tangy" Daniel said. "Women make 80 percent of the decisions in the household, so it's only fitting that they are front and center to discuss the disappointment and victories needed to navigate in the new cannabis industry."
