The agriculture industry is anticipated to expand at a substantial pace over the next couple of years. The global population has been observed to be increasing exponentially, which has led to an increase in demand for food crops. This, in turn, is prognosticated to drive the expansion of the industry in the years to come. The support extended by the governments for ensuring food security is another major factor assessed to contribute to the development of the industry over the next few years. In addition, the incentives and subsidies provided by the governments for enhancing the quality as well as the quantity of food crops are poised to boost the revenue generation of the industry in the foreseeable future.
