PUNE, INDIA, August 29, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Vast Scope of Application to Foster Growth in Global Corrugated Paper Market

The global corrugated paper market is anticipated to witness accelerated growth over the forecast period, as per the latest report uploaded on the website of WiseGuy Reports (WGR). Corrugated paper is a material that consists of a fluted corrugated sheet and one to two flat linerboards. This paper is made on flute lamination machines, which are also known as corrugators. It is used in the manufacturing of corrugated boxes and shipping containers. Corrugated paper is generally preferred over other types of packaging papers due to several features. Some of these features include moisture resistance and wet strength, flat crush test, edge crush test, bending resistance, cushioning and shock absorption, burst strength, grammage, and tear resistance.

The global corrugated paper market is set on an impressive growth trajectory which is influenced by various factors including rising population and an ascension noted in the per capita income of consumers. Further, the applications for corrugated packaging are burgeoning, which is further driving the demand for corrugated paper. Such applications are noted to proliferate in several end-user industries including personal care, food & beverages, consumer goods, pharmaceuticals & healthcare, as well as, electronic goods.

Moreover, the upscaling e-commerce industry is expected to promote higher demand for the corrugated boxes, fostering market growth. A high inclination towards the use of corrugated paper is seen in the packaging industry, owing to growing preference of small, medium, and large corrugated packaging products, supporting fast-paced demand growth observed in the market over the forecast period.
