Consumer goods refer to the products that are bought for the final consumption purpose. Consumer goods are crafted keeping in mind the consumers. The consumers are people who make purchases with the purpose of using them themselves and not for selling them further. These products are not used for further manufacturing process. Owing to this reason, they are also known as final goods. Consumer goods are the result of the production and manufacturing process. These products are the ones displayed in the supermarket shelves and include all the foods and beverages.

The consumer goods industry is rapidly coming out of the traditional business approaches and adapting to the digital business environment that is globally prevalent. Brand loyalty on the part of the consumers are only built through constant communication and innovation. Hence, the consumer goods manufacturers are putting more focus on having a digital presence. The manufacturers and retailers are constantly upgrading their social media profiles and making it easier for the consumers to get in touch with them at the click of a mouse or a single tap on the phone.
