Aroma Chemicals Industry 2019

Description:-

Aroma Chemicals are nothing but synthetic aromas. All the perfumes available in the market are made up of aroma chemicals. These days, the demand for aroma is increasing in the global level due to consumer preference, improved lifestyle, demand for personal-care products and food-beverages and the increasing rural market. The increasing demand for natural aroma, advanced technology, and the emergence of varieties of application are the key factors for the increase in demand. The experts are predicting that the increase in the population of the end-user community will be the driving force to move forward.

The exploration of industries like pharmaceuticals, paints, food, coatings, beverages, rubber, and cosmetics are helping the aroma Chemicals to grow. The soaps and detergent sector accounts the largest share of the market as aroma Chemicals is a necessity in the manufacturing of these products. As soaps and detergents are the daily necessities of the common people, the demand for these products will always remain high and so is for their raw materials.

Global Aroma Chemicals Market was valued US$ 3.89 Bn in 2017 and expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.5 % to reach US$ 6.45 Bn by 2026.
