EINPresswire.com/ -- When considering a new purchase or renewal of website hosting options in Canada, there are many things for a business owner to consider. High on the list, including reliability, speed, price and how well the host can handle demanding traffic. Fortunately, the decision doesn't have to be a difficult one. Leading the charge is HostedinCanada.com a 100% Canadian company, who takes all of these issues extremely seriously and have built their well respected, growing business around addressing all of these important areas. They offer reliable, professionally and first-class service. It's not a surprise they are the first choice for Canadian businesses.

We tried using web hosting out of Texas thinking it could save us some money. The response time was slow and this was certainly costing us revenue, among many other issues. We decided on moving ..”
