

"Declare War on Climate Change" Needs to Mobilize Experts, Leaders, Bankers, Scientists, Organizers to Save the Planet

United Nations' Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) needs to mobilize top experts to save the planet from the immediate threat of climate change.

HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, October 3, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- "We declare war on climate change" hopefully will be the new rallying call from people all around the world inhabited by a 7.7 billion world population who are seeking a better life now and want to save the planet for all mankind.

What is a better life? A definition changes as rapidly as technology itself changes these days. It is utterly impossible to keep up with the advances that change civilization and survival from one minute to the next.

Major problems that today appear to be the most urgent are to defeat the serious threat to our civilization --- Climate Change. We need to mobilize ASAP.

Yes, Climate Change is our enemy --- not other nations.

Public Awareness is our ally. We need to educate the international public by being honest and transparent.

Bring on the protests, and the marches, and the world concerts. After all, this is a patriotic movement that we can and should have. There is also a needed volunteer movement waiting to happen. We need to seek various ways to deal with controlling climate change itself effectively.

First, focused actions should be on "controlling" most importantly and on "cutting or banning carbon emissions and greenhouse gases" to put it bluntly. Here's the reason. The planet's ice and snow are melting at exelling rates and the seas are continuing to rise, making the environment more dangerous for all mankind. It's as simple as that. This is the first time that anyone is reading this press release. There are other lists of many other matters to be solved, but emissions and gases appear to be the most discussed at this time.

"Declare War on Climate Change.org" was just formed to create immediately a new organization which can activate concerns stated above. Luckily, the people we need, already exist. The big players know the people who are the leading experts and organizations who know the "who's who" to contact to immediately get things going in the right direction and how to proceed in an expedient manner. As stated earlier, this is the first time anyone has read this press release, so its open hunting to put together the best organizations of experts from all corners of the earth. Some names will be well established; others will brand new.

If expert people move quickly and in purposeful co-ordination, it will not cost an "arm and a leg" to get on the right track. The people involved now know the real "in's and out's" to get things going in the absolute right direction.

The names mentioned below appear to be the very ones who need to get together on the same playing field. The following people can jump start this tremendously important and challenging campaign to save the planet. Again, actions speak louder than words and there's no time like the present should be everyone's top priority during this crisis.
