PUNE, MAHARASTRA, INDIA, October 1, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Sweetener Market

A sugar substitute is a food additive that provides a sweet taste like that of sugar while containing significantly less food energy. Some sugar substitutes are produced by nature, and others produced synthetically. Those that are not produced by nature are, in general, called artificial sweeteners. The increasing demand for sugar-free and low-calorie diets will be one of the primary growth drivers for the global sweetener market till 2023. Consequently, the zero-calorie sweetener or low-calorie sweetener is gaining popularity among consumers. These sweeteners regulate sugar levels in the human body. Diabetic patients prefer low-calorie sweeteners like saccharin, aspartame, sucralose, and more.

This report focuses on Sweetener volume and value at global level, regional level and company level. From a global perspective, this report represents overall Sweetener market size by analyzing historical data and future prospect. For each manufacturer covered, this report analyzes their Sweetener manufacturing sites, capacity, production, ex-factory price, revenue and market share in global market.

The demand for artificial sweeteners and natural sweeteners is high in the APAC region. Countries such as China, Indonesia, and India contribute most shares towards the sweetener market in the region. In addition, the region is witnessing an increasing adoption of healthy sweeteners due to the rising prevalence of obesity, diabetes, and heart issues. Low-calorie sweeteners such as diet soda are becoming popular picks among consumers. Consequently, the sugar & sweetener market will continue to grow in APAC in the forthcoming years.
