

Advanced Urology Selects DASH Suite to Transform Patient Access and Boost Patient Engagement

Radix Health's DASH software helps providers increase patient access and deliver a frictionless patient experience.

ATLANTA, GA, UNITED STATES, October 3, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Radix Health, Inc., provider of patient access technologies, today announced that it signed a contract for the DASH platform with Advanced Urology, a renowned urology practice headquartered in Snellville, GA. Advanced Urology will use Radix Health's DASH suite of software solutions to transform patient access and delight patients in an era of healthcare consumerism.

Radix Health's DASH software helps medical groups, health centers, and hospitals across the United States deliver a frictionless patient experience through patient-provider matching, contact center scheduling, automated waitlists, actionable reminders, online self-scheduling, and patient surveys. Advanced Urology elected to implement the DASH suite to create a seamless patient experience from the time a patient searches for a provider through scheduling and patient intake to after the appointment has occurred.

"At Advanced Urology, we deliver the best possible patient experience through innovative treatments, exceptional service, and superior outcomes.," says George Fischer, Chief Marketing Officer of Advanced Urology. "The DASH suite allows us to further enhance this experience by engaging our patients across multiple channels. At the same time, it ensures that provider preferences are honored, resulting in higher physician satisfaction."

"As a physician, I know how much the individual patient-provider relationship matters," says CEO Dr. Arun Mohan. "We know Advanced Urology makes patients their number one priority, and we are confident that DASH will not only expand lines of communication between patients and caregivers, but it will take their care delivery to the next level."
