According to the fresh addition to the comprehensive online gallery of reports hosted by Wise Guy Reports (WGR) the Global Digital Music Market has recorded unprecedented growth so far with expectation of further rise with a healthy CAGR by the end of forecast time period.

Digital music industry is the new hype and is growing larger with increasing support from consumers. The introduction of different types of music streaming services imbued with additional features is creating a positive impact on the overall growth of the music industry. The new era of digitization is paving the way for easy accessibility of music in different social platforms, customization of auto playlist and high audio quality. This is propelling the purchase of digital subscriptions over the purchase of their non-digital physical counterparts. Digital subscriptions can be purchased at any time just by a few clicks on your mobile without having to physically visit music stores and waiting for a particular record which might be out of stock.

Subscriptions can be period based or unlimited. If one purchases the digital version of a song then that person is entitled to enjoy it unlimited number of times. One can also subscribe to a streaming channel on monthly or yearly basis and have the privilege to access all songs offered by the streaming channel for the subscription time period. Availability of wired and wireless technology backed up 3G and 4G telecommunication standards have improved internet bandwidth and encouraged the adoption of music streaming services preventing illegal downloading of music.
