“From app companies giving out discounts to bargain-hunters and entrepreneurs, the referral industry is booming,” says Referred CEO Dale Lipan. “Referred gives the chance for people to make connections, ply their trade, and get out there and hustle for the best deals on the internet.”

To make that hustle a little easier, Referred gives users incentives to share codes with each other. The app gives users the chance to level up and unlock various rewards by sharing codes and requesting codes from other users.

Referred also tracks how many times each user gets referred, encouraging users to post useful referrals. The global leaderboard also encourages users to participate, as users who do well will get more visibility as they climb the boards.

“Making money is fun. Saving money is fun. With Referred, people get the chance to do both,” says Lipan.
