

Countdown To Year Zero: Shocking Climate Change Doc Premieres at NYC's Upcoming Chelsea Film Festival

Do we really only have 7 years left to fix climate change before we hit an ecological apocalypse? If so, why are we downplaying the biggest problem?

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, October 7, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As climate strikers take to the streets and the Amazon burns, COUNTDOWN TO YEAR ZERO poses the most important question. What if one simple lifestyle change could actually reverse climate change? If so, why does the media and society at large consistently downplay and even scoff at this solution? This documentary addresses that specific issue and offers a concrete solution. Hint: it involves taking personal responsibility along with demanding government and corporate accountability.

Countdown to Year Zero sounds the alarm about a dangerously downplayed factor in climate change!

Countdown to Year Zero will have its theatrical debut at the Chelsea Film Festival on Sunday, October 20th at 1pm at AMC LOEWS at 312 West 34th street, NYC.
