About The 2019 Inc 5000

NetReputation's standing in the survey is even more of an honor because it occurred at a time of tremendous growth for all those included in the listing, regardless of the type of industry an included company competed within. Inc 5000 honorees showed an even higher competitive impact in their markets than usual, which made it a larger challenge to crack the top ten percent. Overall, all companies together achieved an average growth exceeding 450 percent and a median growth of 157 percent. In 2018, the aggregate revenue of all companies included on the list is $237.7 billion and together the companies added 1,216,208 jobs. While astounding numbers are typical for companies achieving Inc 5000 status, this year's growth vastly exceeded what is considered typical.

NetReputation is pleased to be included in this field of highly successful businesses. According to media information supplied by Inc. Magazine in honor of the list's release, Microsoft, Dell, Domino's Pizza, Pandora, and others were included in the list in their earliest days. The honor has often been one of the first hallmarks of success for other companies that grew into name-brand endeavors and is a notable indicator that current honorees are taking their businesses in the right direction.
