KC and Monica's presentation, titled Your Body Wants to Live: How to Make it Happen, will enlighten the audience to the mega power contained in certain foods. They will talk about superfoods and strategic supplementation as well as which foods you should avoid and why. They will also discuss lifestyle factors that help and hurt.

Chronic diseases such as cancer and others are the product of destructive forces in the body like oxidation, inflammation, glycation and angiogenesis. The "Big 4," as KC refers to them, have natural enemies in the form of powerful foods to combat those forces. Some superfoods such as broccoli, spinach, kale, blueberries, garlic, green tea and many supplements are effective at fighting all four. In addition to detailing some of the most potent foods, the Craichys will also share insights about some of the key supplements that critical to achieving super health.

Other speakers at TTAC LIVE include Dr. Joseph Mercola, the "Health Ranger" Mike Adams, Dr. Josh Axe, Dr. Stanislaw R. Burzynski, and many others. The event is sold out but those wishing to watch the event can stream all sessions live online for free. Click the following link to register to watch the event.
