Introduction

Global Smart Window Market

Technology helped humanity to evolve, and these days, each and every component involved with the human is becoming smarter, and windows are no exception. The emergence of smart windows has raised many eyebrows with excitement and doubt, but the fast-moving industry is an example of people's acceptance of innovative technology. Smart windows are also known as switchable glass is a type of glass that can alter its light transmission property when it is subjected to heat, light, or voltage. By blocking certain wavelengths of light, the glass can become translucent to transparent. It blocks the Ultra Violet (UV) radiation, which is extremely harmful to the human body, particularly eyes. It saves an extra penny by reducing the cost of air conditioning.

As energy consumption is significantly low, which is around 3-5 watts per square meter, the glass is becoming popular across the world. The automobile sectors are the biggest consumer of Smart Window. It is widely used in Electric Vehicles (EVs) as it reduces the inner temperature. By decreasing the A/C load, an Electric Vehicle can improve its travelling distance. According to a study, the number of sold Electric Vehicle increased by 57% from 2016 to 2017. As a result, the number of sold smart windows are also increased in a significant manner. The global market is expected to show an impressive compound annual growth rate during the forecast period.
