About OohLaLaLetters

Lena started designing stationery as a means to satisfy her ever growing love of beautiful and unique paper products. When she couldn't find the bold designs she sought after, she decided to create them herself. Out of the woodwork came the signature OohLaLaLetters style that has been subsequently coveted by Lena's biggest fans. After years of creating stationery by hand, Lena's products started gaining notoriety amongst the stationery industry. Thus far, OohLaLaLetters has been the stationery community's cult secret and its followers have been privy to the company's most sensational designs. Calling themselves the OohLaLaLetters Society, these lucky followers have tasted products that are truly imaginative, daring, and decidedly offbeat. The company's slogan, "That's so you," caters to the idea that OohLaLaLetters' fresh designs are certainly not for everybody. But, if you've got a flare for the dramatic, OohLaLaLetters' underground society may be just what you've been looking for.
