Until recently, most of David Nicholson Reserve has been sold in Missouri and Illinois. Now that Cask Cartel has brought it online thru its marketplace which makes it more appealing for fine-drink lovers from other states who can now finally grab a bottle of this amazing highly allocated bourbon.

In 2017 David Nicholson Reserve bourbon was also been showered in gold by winning the highest accolades with double gold medals in the San Francisco World Spirits Competition. Additionally, it also received the title of the "Best Straight Bourbon. The quality and value of this extra-aged "ryed" bourbon is peerless, making it an obvious choice.

ORIGINS

David Nicholson has humble origins and only hard work and passion made the brand gain popularity. This passion and continuous search for perfection has been crystallized in every drop of the precious liquid. The brands can trace its origins in the first half of the 19th century. Named after it's inventor, a St. Louis store owner who created the famous "43" bourbon recipe and sold it in 1843. Soon after that, Julian "Pappy" Van Winkle begins distilling and bottling the bourbon. David Nicholson whiskey remained in the Van Winkle family till 2000 when Luxco purchased it. Nonetheless, for almost 2 centuries, the recipe has been passed generation after generation and it has remained unaltered.

TASTING PROFILE:

David Nicholson Reserve Bourbon is a high-rye mashbill, bottled at 100-proof and with a perfect balance of sweet and spicy flavors.

-Aspect: Solid amber with glimmers of candy corn orange and barely-visible cloudiness.

-Nose: Vanilla, honey with toasted, oaky spice

-Palate: Smooth, spicy, sweet honey and just a hint of chocolate

-Finish: Toasty, full-bodied, with a nice long finish
