

Amy McAllister Releases "Here I Am" In Memory Of Her Brother's 46th Birthday

GOODLETTSVILLE, TENNESSEE, UNITED STATES, October 28, 2019
/EINPresswire.com/ --

Singer/Songwriter Amy McAllister from St. George, Utah, released "HERE I AM" in memory of her brother, who would have recently celebrated his 46th birthday. The loss of a sibling never goes away. They are thought of continuously even while working on making others' lives more meaningful and hopeful for the future by Amy sharing her music.

Amy McAllister was born to be a part of the Country Music Industry. She travels to Nashville often for music and she also loves working in television, media and radio. Amy has been nominated for numerous awards by both The Inspirational Country Music Association and The Josie Music Awards. Last year, Amy won the first ever presented Josie Music Inspirational Song Of The Year Award for her hit song MY ANGEL and after 23,000 submissions. Amy was up for seven nominations for the 2019 Josie Music Awards and won for Song Of The Year with "You Don't Have To Walk On Water" in the Gospel/Christian category

Here I Am

Given her dedication to paying it forward, Amy reaches out, making a difference worldwide, supporting many philanthropic causes and charities. She always says "yes" to her music supporting a cause and her latest release "HERE I AM" is no exception. This hit song has been launched with a suicide prevention and awareness platform and is inspiring many to never give up on becoming who they are meant to be and to reach out when they are in need.
