Because you're worth it"
Victorian Apothecary

Victorian Apothecary prides itself in making cold process soaps that are handcrafted by top artisans. In this method oils and other ingredients are fused and poured into molds, then cut into bars before curing. The entire process takes about two months but results in a mild, colorful bar that feels good on the skin. The soaps don't dry out the skin and contain the natural glycerin that is removed from commercially processed soaps. These soaps can be easily used in the place of liquid soap, gel shampoo or even shaving cream and are free of sulfates, preservatives, and petroleum products.

These natural soap bars are already proving to be popular online with one satisfied customer stating, "The lavender dream smells heavenly and works like a miracle. This soap is a luxurious bath item and work of art all in one, you never have to settle for boring soap again. My husband and kids all love and can't get enough of it. This our new fave for its calming effect on the skin

Our best selling holiday fragrance, warm spices and love
