Dump trucks or dump trucks Loading and unloading equipment used to unload materials from vehicles, gondola, or trucks. They are used to unload perishable goods. This is done by overturning dump trucks, which helps to unload loaded vehicles. Other auxiliary equipment, such as wheel grips and vehicle transport equipment, is used to operate dump trucks. A hydraulic or electromechanical motor drives the dump trucks.

A dump truck is a vehicle designed to transport bulk materials, usually at construction sites. The dump trucks differ from the Dumpers in their composition: the dump truck is, as a rule, an open four-wheel vehicle with cargo passing in front of the driver, while the dump truck has its cab in front of the load. Besides, recent trends in tunnel dismantling have improved the process of tunnel dismantling, which in turn creates enormous opportunities for the future dump truck market. However, it needs timely maintenance, which may be a deterrent to the construction dump truck market.

The following manufacturers are covered: Caterpillar, JC Bamford excavators, Ashok Leyland, BEML LTD, CNH INDUSTRIAL AMERICAN WLL, Hitachi Construction Machinery, BMW Motors Limited, Komatsu, AB Volvo and Deir & Co.
