

English as a Second Language Program Offered at Charter School in Allentown

ESL classes at Executive Education Academy Charter School help students achieve English proficiency.

ALLENTOWN, PA, UNITED STATES, November 21, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- For students whose native language is not English, school can be difficult and even stressful. However, Executive Education Academy Charter School in Allentown is offering an ESL, or English as a Second Language, program for students in grades K-12 whose dominant language is not English.

"Without support, these students are at a higher risk of missing out on educational opportunities like graduation or even college," says Robert Lysek, founder and CEO of the Allentown charter school.

The ESL program at EEACS gives students specialized instruction in the social and academic aspects of the English language. Working with trained professionals and their peers, they'll gain proficiency in listening, speaking, reading, and writing.

"We've seen numerous students come out of this program and excel," Lysek adds. "It is amazing to see their success and confidence."
