

Attorney Alex Tofer Interviewed Regarding Los Angeles's E-Scooter Problem

Attorney Alex Tofer of the Los Angeles-based law firm Tofer & Associates discussed the problem of E-Scooter accidents in an interview with AskTheLawyers.com™.

BEVERLY HILLS, CA, UNITED STATES, November 25, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Attorney Alex Tofer of the Los Angeles-based law firm Tofer & Associates recently discussed the growing issue of E-Scooter accidents and injuries in an interview with AskTheLawyers.com™. The rise of E-Scooters and similar forms of transportation has led to an increase in the number of injuries and deaths relating to these devices. Because the use of these devices is an emerging field in the world of transportation, oftentimes the users of such vehicles are unaware of the dangers they pose, as well as their rights when it comes to their use.

Attorney Tofer explained that the insurance situation involving E-Scooters can be very complex, and users of these scooters may not be aware of their rights after being injured.

He said: "What the E-Scooter companies have done is they've implemented wording in their agreements that you must sign before you ride the scooter which basically indemnifies the E-Scooter companies for any defects to the scooter which may have caused your accident, including, but not limited to, if the brakes don't work, or if your accelerator gets stuck, causing an accident, you are formally waiving your rights to pursue the E-Scooter provider for any injuries, any property damage claim, any damages whatsoever, the minute that you signed onto that app and you agreed to the terms before riding."
