in their protection by equipping rangers with communications ability throughout the parks. Working with some like Steve Aronson is an honor given his extensive background and success' in business and philanthropy such as Café Britt, Demain Foundation, ProParques, Democracy Lab and the Cultural Association Teatro Expressivo."

The initial 5 purchased units are scheduled be deployed in January in Corcovado National Park. Imcon expects to have as many as 20 Internet Backpacks throughout the park when fully deployed. Plans then call for the units to be implemented throughout the 28 National parks that represent one of the Nation's largest attractions to millions of visitors each year.

"We are excited to partner with Imcon to help make digital connectivity a reality in our national parks and to aid in the communication and safety of our Park Rangers," stated Aronson. "We see the amazing benefit to aid in protecting our rangers and our parks with the Imcon Internet Backpack solution. As a solutions provider, Imcon is providing us new and creative technologies to ensure the longevity of the parks and the safety of the staff and visitors for years to come."

"Imcon has steadily been implementing strategic steps to achieve a notable presence in Latin America, with San Jose, Costa Rica becoming the home to its subsidiary, Imcon LATAM. . Imcon LATAM's headquarters will be located at the America Free Zone in San Jose'." said Dr. Dale Meyerrose, President of Imcon International. "Imcon has been working with NGOs, private sector groups, and non-profits to help bridge the Digital Gap in Latin America."
