The Allentown business processes company won the prestigious award for the medium-sized category.

ALLENTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA, UNITED STATES, December 12, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Business processes company KDG has been named the Lehigh Valley Business of the Year by Lehigh Valley Business in the awards' medium-sized category. The category included six finalists with 30-100 employees each. This is KDG's first year winning the award after being a finalist in 2018's small business category.

The annual awards were held on Wednesday, December 4 at DeSales University. The program honors the Lehigh Valley businesses that dedicate themselves to growth, customer satisfaction, and community.

This award goes to our incredible employees who have dedicated themselves to growth and quality delivery.”

Kyle David, President and CEO

“We’re honored to be recognized as a leader and a good corporate citizen,” says Kyle David, president and CEO of KDG. “We’ve been so grateful to the Lehigh Valley for providing us with a great place to live, work, and grow.”

KDG was celebrated by judges at Lehigh Valley Business for its diversity of services, commitment to employee satisfaction, and transparent customer feedback. The company's rapid growth (having doubled in size in less than a year), its dedication to continued education, and its participation in the Lehigh Valley's charitable community also helped give it a competitive edge.

“We’re humbled,” adds David. “This award goes to our incredible employees who have dedicated themselves to growth and quality delivery. They are the reason that we’re being recognized.”

The Business of the Year award is only the latest recognition bestowed upon KDG in 2019. The company's tech management team was named IT Department of the Year by the American Business Awards and the company as a whole was ranked the 36th B2B company in the world by Clutch.co.
