The global therapeutic dental equipment market is expected to grow to $0.12 billion at a rate of about 4.9% through 2022. Unhealthy lifestyle changes along with rising diabetes prevalence are expected to increase the demand for dental care and surgeries, thereby driving the therapeutic dental market. Tooth surface, dental pulp, subcutaneous and sub mucosal layers are some of the regions prone to adverse effects during the use of dental lasers. Due to these effects, the growth of the therapeutic dental market is expected to be restrained in the future. The therapeutic dental equipment market consists of sales of therapeutic dental equipment and related services. Therapeutic dental equipment is used for the treatment of dental diseases. The key products include dental lasers, soft-tissue laser systems, diode lasers systems, CO2 lasers systems, YAG laser systems, and all-tissue (hard/soft) laser systems.
