"Saletto made the weight and is ready to claim the championship belt for his hometown of Indianapolis," said Dominic Brogan of Chin Chek Promotions. "The vacant WBC title is in his sights for 2020."

“

Saletto "Mr. Personal" Henderson made the weight and is ready to claim the championship belt for his hometown of Indianapolis. The vacant WBC title is in his sights for 2020."

Dominic Brogan, founder of Chin Chek Promotions

The title fight between Henderson and Soler will be the first time that a fight of this magnitude will be brought to the city of Indianapolis. "I had to endure a lot of death and boxing calmed me down and gave me the discipline I needed. I used to fight in school and now I am fighting for a cause and my dream," said Henderson.

The co-main event for the GBC Super Middleweight World Title features Indy's Keon "Neon" Johnson (27-10-1) v.

Australia's Les "Lock N Load" Sherrington (37-14).

"Adding to the excitement of two championship fights is Selma, Indiana's fighter Al Hughes, Jr., at 70 years old, who is fighting with a purpose and as a tribute to his late son," said Brogan. "We are bringing 11 undercard fights that are sure to be exciting."

Selma/Muncie, Indiana's Al Hughes v. Indy's Tramane Towns for a 4-round bout. Hughes intends to make history as the oldest active fighter in the world to be documented in the Guinness Book of Records. "I'm taking my son into the ring by wearing his mouthpiece, protective cup and carrying him in my heart," Hughes said. "It's not about me or any fame or fortune or glory or any pat on the back. I'm doing this to honor my son."

Al Hughes, Jr., battled drug addiction and died of apparent suicide in April 2019, a few days before his dad's birthday. A portion of the proceeds from Hughes fight will be donated to the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention.

Don't miss the main and co-main championship boxing and several Chin Chek jaw dropping fights, from start to finish there will be plenty of boxing action to experience. General Admission Tickets start at just $30.
