By expanding its proprietary data coverage, Mintec will provide greater transparency into current market prices to its customers.

Marcel has considerable expertise in launching new price benchmarks & managing IOSCO compliant processes. It's a massive advantage to be able to deliver more proprietary price data to our customers.”

Spencer Wicks, CEO of Mintec

“We're absolutely thrilled to have Marcel join the Mintec team,” said Spencer Wicks, CEO of Mintec. “Marcel has considerable expertise in launching new price benchmarks and managing IOSCO compliant processes. It's a massive advantage for us to be able to deliver more proprietary price data to our customers. By providing our clients with even more reliable and independently assessed prices, we can ensure that buyers and sellers have greater clarity into the current market price, which enables robust price negotiations for physical contracts. Our price discovery is going to push deeper into core food ingredients and raw materials therefore Marcel will be adding to his team over the coming months.”

Currently, Mintec provides over 14,000 prices across more than 650 commodity types. This appointment will enable Mintec to extend its existing price reporting capabilities still further with a focus on key European and U.S. benchmarks.

“The opportunity to build a global price reporting team that will provide greater insight into commodities that are often difficult to follow is a fantastic opportunity,” said Marcel Goldenberg. “Since joining Mintec, I've been impressed by the breadth and depth of the pricing data and analytics published but also the capabilities of the entire Mintec team. Our clients, from across the food value chain, need to adapt to an ever-changing industry where benchmarking non-exchange traded commodity prices can be difficult. My goal will be to consolidate Mintec's position as the leading independent proprietary price provider for the global food value chain."
