

Megaconstellations and their impact on space debris to be topic at Military Space Situational Awareness 2020

SMi Group Reports: European Space Agency to brief at the Military Space Situational Awareness conference 2020.

LONDON, LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, December 19, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- SMi Group are proud to announce the return of the 15th annual Military Space Situational Awareness Conference and Exhibition, taking place on the 29th – 30th April, in London.

In recent news, the European Space Agency Director General, calls for aggressive action on space debris. Woerner cited concerns about the megaconstellations and the impact they will have on space debris. (Nov. 19 Space News)

With that in mind, the Military Space Situational Awareness Conference and Exhibition will be a great opportunity to delve into this topic and how to tackle this issue. The event will provide delegates a chance to network and hear first-hand insight from European Space Agency's Mr Tim Flohrer, Space Debris Analyst, Co-Lead Space Surveillance and Tracking Segment, Space Situational Awareness programme, presenting on 'Collision Risk Avoidance and Mitigation'.

For interested parties, there is a £200 early bird discount for bookings made by 31st January 2020. Register at <http://www.military-space.com/EINpr2>

With this year's conference featuring 120+ attendees, 7+ hours of networking and an extensive exhibition space – Military Space Situational Awareness Conference 2020 will give an unparalleled chance to meet and network with all the key players in this important sector.
