"I am excited to announce my candidacy for commissioner and to assist in creating a more vibrant future for our great island city. It's time. Time for change. Time for progress. Time for new leadership," said Bracchi.

Bracchi laid out three points for his campaign:

"Moving the city beyond 2020 will require common-sense development to revitalize our commercial areas while preserving the charm and character of our single-family neighborhoods," said Bracchi.

Bracchi is a licensed pharmacist, attorney, and hospital executive who now runs his own healthcare consulting company. "My work experience managing a budget of over $350M for a major company in the healthcare industry has provided an invaluable skillset for budgeting and operational excellence, which differentiates me from the other candidates for commissioner. I am the only candidate with any big business experience," Bracchi said.
