

CSA Balloons Announces Save-the-Date Balloons for Business Events

With save-the-dates being all the rage, custom balloon printer CSA Balloons now offers custom save-the-date balloons for businesses.

TORONTO , ONTARIO, CANADA, February 1, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Leave it to CSA Balloons to constantly find new, inventive ways to make use of balloons. They decided to kick off 2020 with the announcement of their save-the-date custom balloons for businesses.

Save-the-date balloons are a growing trend in the wedding industry. However, they are a relatively new thing for business events.

It is a known fact that business professionals have to manage hectic schedules and save very little time in their calendar for business functions. For this reason, sending-out save-the-dates allows businesses to maximize their potential number of attendees. Still, many companies want to do more; they see the benefit of using their save-the-date announcement as a way to create a buzz around their event, all the while raising a feeling of anticipation for what's to come. That's when save-the-date custom balloons come into play.

Balloons can offer that element of fun, while providing plenty of visual space to include all the necessary elements of a save-the-date announcement”

Csaba Laviolette, President and Founder of CSA Balloons

“Balloons can offer that element of fun, while providing plenty of visual space to include all the necessary elements of a save-the-date announcement” mentions Csaba Laviolette, President and Founder of CSA Balloons.

The renowned north-american custom balloon printer has printed save-the-date balloons for some time before making it an official thing. “The save-the-date campaigns that we have been part of have been very successful. We believe custom balloons are great save-the-date announcement tools... many companies and events can benefit from sending out custom balloons ahead of their invitations”, says Laviolette.

CSA Balloons offers 1-side or 2-side imprints for save-the-date custom balloons. They can add a logo or a specific event image in the design, as well as the event slogan and social media information. Their expert graphic designers have created standard save-the-date layouts, developed to convey the announcement information while maximizing the use of imprintable space.

Not All Save-the-Dates Are Created Equal

Laviolette warns us that, although anyone can print a date on a balloon, no one can create the crisp and visually flawless imprint that CSA Balloons guarantees; and their imprint size is larger than anyone on the market. After all, if you are going to use save-the-dates to announce your upcoming event to your business community, you will want them to be perfect. CSA Balloons has proven, many times over, that they can deliver perfection.
