Litigation Funding Investment Market

According to the report, the global litigation funding investment market is predicted to be valued at approximately USD 10,916 million in 2018 and is expected to reach a value of around USD 22,373 million by 2027, at a CAGR of around 8.3% between 2019 and 2027.

The process of litigation funding is broadly referred to as the practice of providing money to a party for filing a legal suit in return for a share of any damages awarded or a share in the legal settlement. Litigation funding offers investors the avenue for expanding their range by taking part in a new asset class that does not correlate with traditional market instruments such as property, equities, bonds, or commodities. Precisely, litigation funding investment is also referred to as legal financing and third-party litigation funding.

Furthermore, since the last thirty years, litigation funding has begun to gain wide acceptance across the globe with countries such as Australia, the U.S., and the UK becoming the leading countries in this domain. Recently, the governments of countries like Canada, Singapore, and Hong Kong have introduced laws supporting the funding of legal claims demonstrating the trend towards wider acceptance.

Rise in the funding of frivolous litigations to spur the market trends

An increase in the investments of petty legal suits is likely to result in the massive market demand over the forecast timeline. Moreover, these legal suits have the ability to give high earnings and have low-risk potential.

Furthermore, an increase in the number of lawsuit funders across countries like the U.S. along with high-valued legal disputes involving multiple jurisdictions will sketch the profitable roadmap for the litigation funding investment industry during the period from 2019 to 2027.

In addition to this, legalization of the lawsuit financing activities in Asian Countries like Hong Kong and Singapore will enlarge the scope of the business during the forecast period. Nevertheless, banning the lawsuit funding activities in a few of the countries and the risk of financier losing the complete investment due to unfavorable ruling may deter the market expansion over the forecast timeslot.

Large enterprises to dominate the organization size segment in terms of revenue

The growth of the segment over the forecast timeline is due to high employee presence resulting in massive litigations against the firms. Apart from this, the giant firms have full-time legal advisors and consultants to fight the lawsuits and this can further promote segmental growth.

Banking, Financial Services and Insurance segment to contribute a major revue share towards the overall market by 2027

The growth of the segment is owing to the acceptance of litigation funding activities in the emerging economies as well as developed countries across the globe.
