Clinical Supply Chain, Simplified™

Global Clinical and Ancillary Supply Chain leader Ancillare, LP, announced it has appointed Danielle Frederick to Vice President of Clinical and Business Operations.

Reporting to Dominick Vietri, President, Frederick will provide global leadership and strategic direction to enhance the organization's clinical operations, global distribution and supply chain management initiatives. Frederick is tasked with developing, implementing and executing policies, procedures, programs and services designed to minimize risk and enable compliant business operations.

Since joining the organization in May 2018, Frederick has played an integral role in enhancing quality focus throughout the Ancillare organization.

Frederick brings extensive experience as a diverse quality professional with a strong focus on global quality management. Prior to Ancillare, Danielle served in various quality management positions at West Pharmaceutical Services and Fisher Clinical Services, specializing in quality audits, supplier quality, document control and training. Frederick holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from the California Coast University and maintains multiple certifications, including the Executive Leadership Certificate from Cornell University, ASQ Certified Quality Auditor and Certified Manager of Quality and Organizational Excellence.

"Danielle has been vital in strengthening our ability to deliver the best-in-class ancillary supply chain management services for our clients," said Dr. Joanne Santomauro, Chief Executive Officer. "We're delighted to welcome Danielle to the executive leadership team."
