

Swedish Air Force to brief on air power maximisation at Air Mission Planning and Support 2020

Smi Reports: Swedish Air force to speak at Air Mission Planning and Support 2020, in London

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, January 30, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The leading Air Mission Planning and Support conference will return for its 11th year in London on the 21st and 22nd April 2020.

With the continuing development, integration and application of advanced 5th generation platforms, technologies are rapidly evolving, which means the challenges in air mission planning are also advancing. For this year's conference, there will be dedicated focus on how these innovative support systems can help in maximising air power.

The two-day agenda will also look into technological innovations, data-management systems and overcoming the challenges posed by multi-domain operations and command and control.

For those interested in attending, the early bird saving of £200 will expire on Friday 31st January 2020. Register at <http://www.airmissionplanning.co.uk/einPR4>

With that in mind, SMi Group are pleased to announce Colonel Carl-Fredrik Edström, Chief of Operations, Swedish Air Force, as a speaker for this year's conference on, 'Optimising Mission Planning Systems with 4.5 Generation Aircraft and Maximising Interoperability to Enhance Air Power'.

Colonel Carl-Fredrik Edström will brief on:

- Assessing the current planning procedures of the Swedish Air Force and the ability to provide comprehensive mission support to the operators
- Anti-access area denial (A2/AD) and the challenges of operating in a degraded environment for the Swedish Air Force
- Integrating 4.5 generation platforms and the future plans for maintaining the operational edge

The poster features a dark background with a sunset sky. Two fighter jets are shown in flight. The text is white and bold.
