So for those who are ready to pack their bags as soon as the gifts are unwrapped (or even before), here are some of the top travel destinations for couples.

Valentine's Day Is The Perfect Time for a Couples' Trip, According to JustFly

New York City: Let's start obvious. NYC is always worth visiting, for all the reasons one expects. The best way to experience New York is on foot, and what's more romantic than wandering hand-in-hand? Of course, it goes without saying that New York also boasts some of the best restaurants in the world, which should make for good dinner dates all through one's trip.

Oahu: Time for the opposite approach. Hawaii is a popular vacation spot, but the north shore of Oahu in particular is quieter, more authentic, and totally romantic. The north shore sports multiple beaches, each with slightly different vibes, and Ted's Bakery, a restaurant so good that one would be justified in going for multiple meals there on the same day. All in all, Oahu presents a perfect opportunity for a warmer take on Valentine's Day with your significant other.

Bali: Here's another hot one. Winter can be a bit of a sluggish season, when one's body is liable to encourage hibernation. One foolproof way to shock it out of that mode is to jet off to Bali! With its rolling rice paddies, lively towns, and spectacular temples, Bali might seem suited for only the more adventurous of couples, but don't be mistaken. On top of hikes and bike rides, Bali also offers some luxurious creature comforts, like infinity pools and affordable villas for two.

Banff: If winter is one's preference, might as well go full-out. Banff sees far more traffic during the summer, so take advantage of some cheaper rates and enjoy some of the most stellar winter panoramas in the world. Banff elegantly threads the needle between adventure and relaxation, with trails and hot springs in equal measure. Best of all, one can go for a skate on Lake Louise. There's nothing more romantic than skating surrounded by mountains!

Regardless of your chosen destination, booking a Valentine's Day trip requires planning, some thought and a lot of heart.

There are things you can do to make it better for yourself. Things you can do to improve your situation. I think if it were up to me, I would make changes right away.
