knowledge, learn and develop IG best practices. This valuable partnership brings together the global communities of EDRM and InfoGovANZ to meet the challenges and opportunities for organisations in the data and information age.

“It is critical for EDRM to ally with organizations like Information Governance ANZ with deep roots in their local community,” says Mary Mack, CEO and chief legal technologist at EDRM. “Information Governance ANZ is also a silo breaker celebrating multidisciplinary collaboration with legal, e-discovery, privacy, risk and compliance, information security and records management professionals.”

“We are delighted to be affiliated with the EDRM community, given the long history and impact of the EDRM and IGRM reference models on the legal and broader professional community” says Susan Bennett who founded Information Governance ANZ in 2016. “The collaboration of industry associations to break down professional silos is critical for innovative solutions that effectively govern both the opportunities and the challenges confronting organisations from the exponential volumes of data and information.” Bennett holds a Master of Business Administration (AGSM) and a Master of Laws (Syd). She is a Certified Information Privacy Professional/Europe (CIPP/E) and principal of Sibenco Legal & Advisory.

Empowering the global leaders of e-discovery, the Electronic Discovery Reference Model (EDRM) creates practical global resources to improve e-discovery, privacy, security and information governance. Since 2005, EDRM has delivered leadership, standards, tools, guides and test datasets to strengthen best practices throughout the world. EDRM has an international presence in 113 countries and growing and an innovative support infrastructure for individuals, law firms, corporations and government organizations seeking to improve the practice and provision of data and legal discovery.
