“Rick is our kick-off speaker for the Advanced Campaigning Class each year due to his wealth of knowledge in campaign building,” said Dr. Kevin Wagner professor and department chair of FAU. “His ability to relate to students with the stories he shares about his campaign experience is invaluable.”

“Working with FAU professors and students is an honor,” said Asnani. “Today, it is crucial to learn from a mentor in the field of your career interest. As we head into the 2020 election, understanding the inner workings of campaign management relies heavily on your previous experience and surrounding leaders. My goal is to create leaders out of students, to provide each individual with real-life experience and insight on campaign challenges, creative tactics and timeless proven strategies. I continually look forward to the Advanced Campaigning Class at FAU where preparing our next generation of leaders means standing on the frontlines with them from day one.”
