

Insurance Licensing Services of America Offers Free Trial for New Online Tool for Surplus Lines Compliance

To help surplus lines brokers navigate the current business disruption, ILSA offers a 60-day free trial for its new Surplus Lines Calculator and Tax Tool: CATT.

GROESBECK, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, April 1, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- It's no joke! Insurance Licensing Services of America (ILSA) planned to unveil the insurance industry's first comprehensive surplus lines compliance tool in April. Now, to help surplus lines brokers working remotely continue to meet their compliance obligations, ILSA will offer a free 60-day trial of its Surplus Lines Calculator and Tax Tool \(CATT\).

Unlike other tax calculators, CATT brings together all the resources brokers and producers need for all fifty states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico in one place. Insurance professionals can enter policy information and immediately receive a detailed breakdown of taxes and fees owed to state regulators.

The CATT Premium Edition offers additional features including access to state-specific forms, filing instructions, state stamp/notice language and formatting instructions, and filing and tax due dates. CATT also allows users to access state export lists, lists of eligible insurers and state tax and fee payment instructions, where applicable.

Surplus lines brokers and producers can sign up for a free 60-day trial of CATT, starting on April 1, 2020. CATT and CATT Premium will also be available on a subscription basis on that date. ILSA's surplus lines tax experts will be available to consult with users requiring additional assistance with surplus lines filings and tax reports.

ILSA was the first compliance service provider to offer full-service surplus lines filing and tax reporting as a third-party vendor. They continue to work with state regulators and surplus lines associations, such as ELANY, to provide innovative tools and information resources for the insurance industry.
