The 12th Annual International D.C. Tap Festival brought renowned tap stars and over 1K aficionados from around the world and across the U.S. to the Chloe and Maud Foundation's new online platform for six hours of replayable, online classes, industry and history discussions plus a dynamic concert hosted by Emmy nominated choreographer Chloe Arnold and her sister, world renowned tap dancer Maud Arnold, celebrating the classic art of tap dance, reinvigorated with a cutting edge style that is reaching millions of dancers worldwide through their viral presence.

"To see young children dancing in their homes with smiles on their faces, and enthusiasm to be a part of our event is so rewarding, but we recognize that not everyone has access to dance" said Producer Maud Arnold. "We wanted to create a movement where dancers share the responsibility of lifting up one another, with a buy one, donate one model. We are now able to continue to offer our programming with need based scholarships to young people around the globe. The impact is major, bringing hope to those who right now need it most."

The interactive All-Star Concert "TAP INTO LIFE" featured electrifying evening of tap dance and live jazz performances by: MacArthur 'Genius' Award recipient Michelle Dorrance, Broadway stars, Grammy Award winning musician Ben Williams, Lady Dianne Walker, Viral Tap Stars - Syncopated Ladies, Producers Chloé and Maud Arnold, dancers from LaLa Land, TV, and abroad.

"In a time where hope and togetherness is much needed, we are excited to Tap into Unity, by bringing together some of today's greatest tap stars with kids around the world, to spend a day uplifted with dance" said Chloe Arnold. "It's amazing because we know that dance brings joy, that tap dance heals, and we are excited to lead this movement!"
