

Associates of Cape Cod Webinar on Recombinant Chromogenic Assay as Alternate Methods for the Bacterial Endotoxins Test

Smi Reports: Associates of Cape Cod to host an online webinar taking place on Wednesday 29th April 2020.

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, April 7, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- SMi Group is delighted to announce a free webinar led by Associates of Cape Cods on 'Recombinant Chromogenic Assay as Alternate Methods for Bacterial Endotoxins Test (BET)' taking place on 29th April 2020 at 10am EDT (3pm BST – UK time).

The webinar will aim to review the global perspective on the use of such reagents, including their regulatory status.

With the rising prominence of potential use of synthetic (non-animal based) reagents for bacterial endotoxin testing, the one hour webinar, hosted and led by Veronika Wills, Manager, Technical Services, Associates of Cape Cod, will provide an in-depth overview of the global perspective on the use of such reagents, including their regulatory status and focus on executing a recombinant kinetic chromogenic assay, testing samples and detailed data interpretation with the primary focus on comparability of the data with conventional amoebocyte lysate- based assay.

Attendees joining the webinar:

- Senior Microbiologists
- Lead Scientists
- Laboratory Managers
- QA Specialists
- Drug Substance External Manufacturers
- QC Scientists
- Heads of Quality
- Business Development Managers
- Pharmaceutical Microbiology Consultants
- Higher Pharmacopoeia Scientists
- Analytical Standards Specialists
