LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, April 8, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- To prevent further spreading of the coronavirus around the globe, families celebrating religious holidays this year are completely revising and improvising like never before. With people under various restrictions on movement, including stay-at-home orders and self-isolation, families are devising alternative ways to observe the spring holidays. They include streaming online Easter church services, hosting virtual Passover Seder dinners, or holding family-only egg hunts in the backyard. But, one of the things people are worrying the most about is food for these celebrations. Well, no need to fear as NutriFit is here.

Curbside pickup used to be a popular perk. Now it's a public health necessity. One food service delivery service that adopted curbside pickup and is thriving is NutriFit. NutriFit is a well-established company with an exemplary record of exceptional food quality. They have been at the forefront of customized home meal delivery for over 32 years. Jackie Keller, NutriFit founder and director, is offering Passover and Easter specials to save the day during these tough times for religious holidays.

Jacqueline Keller is the Founding Director of NutriFit, LLC, and a National Board Certified Health & Wellness Coach (NBC-HWC) issued by the National Board for Health & Wellness Coaching and holds multiple other professional certifications including ACC, CPWC, and BCC with specialty designations in Health and Wellness. Jackie has a personal dedication to teaching people about healthy lifestyle choices. While she was only a teenager, Jackie's father died from a heart attack. She then made it her mission to help individuals lead longer and healthier lives. NutriFit was born over 32 years ago out of the philosophy Keller carried over since she was a teenager.

Keller realized many people living in the Los Angeles area preferred tasty, farm-fresh meals, but often lacked reasonable access to obtaining it. Most times, visiting popular and luxurious restaurants was the only way to enjoy healthier fare. However, organic meals were only offered as occasional, specially prepared entrees. Keller knew that fresh, wholesome food should be the norm, not the exception, because everyone deserved a fair shot at healthy living. Therefore, a healthy food delivery option was created and NutriFit was born.
