

Inspired by COVID-19, the Plantbased Business Hour Focuses on Pandemic Solution

Focusing on the Future of Food and a Safer Food Supply, Plantbased Business Hour w/Elysabeth Alfano Covers the Plant-based Business News & the Leaders Making It

CHICAGO / LOS ANGELES, USA, April 9, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Inspired by COVID-19 and consumer and investor demand for healthier, more sustainable foods, including a solution to meat-borne pandemics, plant-based journalist, news expert, radio host and TV Producer, Elysabeth Alfano has launched a new digital show: THE PLANTBASED BUSINESS HOUR. Airing at 1p on the Jane UnChained News Network on Facebook Live and archived on ElysabethAlfano.com, The Plantbased Business Hour LinkedIn Page and her Awesome Vegans Podcast, Elysabeth talks to the plant-based business leaders who are working on a safer food supply for our future: plant-based foods. Speaking with venture capitalists, CEOs, innovators, analysts, entrepreneurs, start-ups, and more, the conversations cover a myriad of topics from impact investing to the newest plant-based and cellular agriculture innovations.

People want news on a safer food supply so that we don't experience another meat-borne pandemic or COVID-19. On The Plantbased Business Hour, leaders share their groundbreaking, plant-based products.”

Elysabeth Alfano

Plant-based business represents big money. Plant-based business also represents the big solution for a healthier food supply. Meat-borne pathogens are an expensive threat to our physical, financial and mental health, as we are currently experiencing with the Coronavirus. Ebola, Mad Cow Disease, Asian Bird Flu, Swine Fever are all examples of illnesses that exist, spread and begin with eating and handling animal meats.

“During this time of incredible stress and worry, many people want news, insights and solutions as to how things will be different in the future so that we don't find ourselves right back in this same position. Investors and consumers are interested in the plant-based arena as they search for healthier options and a safer food supply. The Plantbased Business Hour and my interviews on same give the leaders in this sector a platform to share their strategies and advancements in plant-based innovation with the general public. On the show, I share hopeful business news about how many are working to create a better future for us through their business models. Up until now, and with the exception of Beyond Meat and
