CBD oil and CBD hemp extracted oil both are referred to as "CBD Hemp Oil," that is harvested by cold pressing hemp seeds or by extracting stalks from the hemp plant. This oil can have a nutty flavor, and it's a clear green oil. Hempseed oil doesn't contain any THC (tetrahydrocannabinol), because the hemp seeds themselves don't contain cannabinoids. Refined CBD oil is primarily used in body care products. Industrial CBD oil is used in lubricants, paints, inks, fuel, and plastics. Hempseed oil has found some use in the production of soaps, shampoos, and detergents.
