Country rockin' sister duo delivers new music, "Don't Let Another Day Go By." Single Release Party on YouTube Tonight At 6 p.m. Central

PLEASANT VIEW, TENNESSEE, UNITED STATES, April 24, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- With impeccable timing, Nata and Tinka Morris of Southern Halo mark their debut as a duo with an upbeat, uplifting reminder to slow down and give gratitude with "Don't Let Another Day Go By."

Perfect for our current "social distancing" lifestyle and the self-reflections that are a natural by-product of this environment, the new single is a punchy, positive rallying cry for "staying present" and expressing appreciation for the world - and the people in it.

Resonating with Southern Halo's vibrant harmonies, "Don't Let Another Day Go By" enjoyed a premiere on Billboard yesterday. The single officially launches tonight with a virtual, live release party at 6 p.m. CT on YouTube. Earlier today, eagle-eyed fans caught an exclusive acoustic performance on Scenes Live Sessions. Tomorrow, the siblings will take over Country Sway's Facebook page for a special concert at 6 p.m. CT. Beginning Monday, radio can access the song via PLAY MPE.

Nata and I felt like this is a perfect time to help inspire people to stop worrying about the future, or things that have happened in the past, and instead to simply just focus on the now.”

Break down
That door
Try to love a little more

Slow down
Let go
Breathe it in, go with the flow
Put the pause on "want it all"

And while you're learning how to fly Don't let another day go by (N. Morris /

ABOUT Southern Halo

Previously a trio, the Morris sisters became the youngest artists to compete in the Texaco Country Showdown in 2014, held at the Ryman.
Their debut EP followed, produced by Alabama's Jeff Cook. Next, they teamed with hit songwriters Gerald O' Brien and Catt Gravitt for two full-length projects in 2015 and 2018. The latter, Just Like In The Movies, generated two Top 25 hits on the MusicRow Country Breakout Chart with "Anything Is Possible" and "I Think Too Much."

Using each project as a stepping stone, the siblings embarked on multiple radio tours, extended U.S. performances and three tours to the UK. Their finely tuned stage shows have earned them spots at CMA Fest, Bluebird Café, Grammy Museum Mississippi, and Grammy Museum Los Angeles, among others. Media coverage from Billboard, MusicRow Magazine, All Access, iHeartRadio, and Radio Disney Country helped push Southern Halo into the spotlight. They've shared the stage with Maren Morris, Old Dominion, Randy Houser, Easton Corbin, Brantley Gilbert, and legends Dionne Warwick and B.B. King. Originally from Cleveland, Mississippi, Nata and Tinka now call Nashville home.
