Brief Overview on Payday Loans:

Payday loans are small amount, short-term, unsecured loans that borrowers promise to repay out of their next paycheck or regular income payment. The loans are generally for USD 500 or less than USD 1000 and come due within two to four weeks after receiving the loan and are usually priced at a fixed fee, which signifies the finance charge to the borrower. These unsecured loans have a short repayment period and are called payday loans because the duration of a loan usually matches the borrower's payday period. According to the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, in 2017, there were 14,348 payday loan storefronts in the United States. Approx. 80% of payday loan applicants are re-borrowing to pay a previous payday loan. The regulations for payday loans are strictest in the Netherlands.
